First Concert of the Season at the Park-Large and Fashionable Assemblage—Love, Flowers and Enchanting Melody. More beautiful, more inviting in its general aspect than almost at any previous period, the Park was yesterday afternoon the scene of heartfest enjoyattractiveness are added balmy and refreshing breezes, the incense of fragrant flowers budding forth in all their charming

The greatest attention was paid to the admirable rendering of the various pieces, the majority of which were greated with load applause. The strains spread beautifully, and a long line of carriages were drawn up near the fountains, while their occupants were listening to the selections. As an inaugural entertainment it was entirely successful, and unquestionably afforded much gratification. Happily the weather was delightful to the finish of the programme, but a gentle shower gave timely warning to the assemblage to depart. From all appearances the Park Commissioners intend to spure nothing in order that the citizens may be suitably entertained during the coming months.

Napoleon and the Parliament. This morning the Emperor Napoleon met the Legislative bodies in solemn assembly in the Salle d'Etat, and received from a deputation of the Corps Legislatif the result of the vote on the plebiscitum His Majesty, with the Empress and Prince Imperial, were greeted by the Deputies and Senators with de-M. Schneider addressed the Emperor on behalf of the Legislative bodies.

The Emperor's Speech in Reply. PARIS, May 21, 1870.

The following is the Emperor's speech in reply to the address of the Legislative bodies on the presentation of the result of the vote on the plebiscitum. Sirs.—Receiving from your hands the result of this vote, my first impulse is to express my gratitude to the nation which thus renews to me for the fourth time in twenty years the signal evidence of its conditions. Universal saffrage, the elements of which change unceasingly, nevertheless accomplishes its purpose always. It has for guides its traditions, the certainty of its instincts, the fidelity of its sympathies. The plebiscitum had for its sole object the ratification by the people of constitutional reform. But amid a conflict of opinions, and in the struggle with its opponents, its purpose became greater. Let us not regret this. The adversaries of our institutions have made the question one between the empire and revolution. The nation has settled the question in favor of that system which guarantees order and liberty. To-day the empire is strong; but it will show its strength by its moderation. My government will execute the laws without partiality or weakness. It will not deviate from the line marked out for it. on of the result of the vote on the plebiscitum:

weakness. It will not deviate from the line marked out for it.

Respecting all the rights of its subjects, it will protect them all, and all their interests, without the thought of dissenting votes or hostile mancenvres. But it will also cause the national will to be respected, and will hold it above all controversy. Freed from the constitutional questions which have kept them apart, its best spirits will now have but one purpose—to rally round the constitution which the country has sanctioned. Honest persons of all parties will now unite to soften the asperittes of parties will now unite to soften the asperittes of parties will now unite to soften the asperittes of parties will now unite to soften the asperitty of France. We shall labor to diffuse instruction, to simplify administrative measures, to introduce into the code ameliorations in lavor of the agricultural interest, and to develop public works. We shall give our time to the reduction and best distribution of Laxation. Such is our programme, which, if realized, will increase the progress of civilization.

I thank you, gentlemen, for the aid you have given me on this occasion. The votes, which ratify those of 1868, 1851 and 1862, reaffirm your powers and give you, like me, new force to work for the nation. Now, more than ever, may we be fearless of the regime which a great people founded amid political troubles, and which is thus fortilled in an era of peace and liberty?

The Money Still in the Scales-Mrs. Burke Confident of Having Her Rights Established—Further Adjournment.
Great interest is felt in the decision of Surrogate

Hutchings in this mysterious case. The details of the strange affair have already fully appeared, so far at least as relates to the death of the aged Captain Alexander. But how his fortune went is yet undetermined. Mrs. Burke, his rather prepossessing daughter, contends that he died worth $60,000; that she was his helress, but that she was deprived of her lawful property by some foul play as yet undisher lawful property by some foul play as yet undiscovered. The Gardners, with whom the old gentleman lived, it will be remembered, were arrested on a charge of having caused his death by poison. The body was exhumed but no traces of poison having been discovered and the accused were released from custody. It is alleged that at the time of his death he was worth a considerable amount of bonds, the exact amount of which, however, has not appeared. Mrs. Burke, as his administratrix, claims before the Surrogate that she is legally entitled to the property, and the testiwhich, however, has net appeared. Mrs. Burke, as his administratity, claims before the Surrogate that she is legally entitled to the property, and the testimony now being taken is catefy directed to show the amount. From all the present aspects of the case, the investigation will doubtless be a lengthened, as several parties are strenuously contesting the rights which Mrs. Burke confidently presents. The adjourned hearing was to have been continued yesterday, but owing to the absence of counsel it was further postponed until Saturday next.

The Gardners have instituted proceedings, claiming damages for defamation of character against Mrs. Eurke, in consequence of their being arrested at her Instance.

> Trotting at the Fashion Course-A Fourth or Extra Day of the Spring Meeting-Four Races, the 2:26 Purse and Three Matches-The Bay Gelding J. J. Bradley the Winner of the Former-Irregular Proceedings in the Commoders-O'Brisn Race.

The spring trotting meeting of the Fashion Course stretched itself to the end of the week by the postonement of the purse for 2:28 horses from Friday. satisfaction was expressed because of this act; but the excuse that a track in fine condition was required to give the respective horses a fair and even chance and the outside betting fraternity, who had invested a large amount of money o favorites, an equal opportunity one with the other, tended to have a soothing effect, and if the disappointed of the previous day had not forgotten the onjustifiable irregularity they had forgiven it when it was known that three match races would be added to the day's sport. zest to the occasion not apparent during the pre-metropolis, the boast of experienced gardeners, the cherished spot of the weary sojourner, was yesterday a perfect paradise in its way, if terrestral loveliness and joyous surroundings could contribute but a single plant to the great garden soon hoped to be eternally regained. It was opening day at the Park. The new Commissioners, from whom, by the way, so much is not naturally expected, commenced their reign, and the inaugural ceromony was fraught with gladdening recollections. Long before you plunge into the enchanting intricacies of the shady routes a joyful roar bursts upon the ear, and quickly ascending the brow of a gently sloping hill, the beautiful leaves meanwhile delying the rays of a burning sun, a sight reveals itself that at once arouses feelings of delight. Three thou-and merry school boys are gamboiling on the broad green sward. Peals and peals of laughter harmonize their agile feats. Some disport themselves in racing, but the variegated colors of war caps proclaim that the national game has the precedence. Further penetrating through romantic lanes, a rumbling sound warns the traveller that many equipages are whirling along some well paved road in dashing style. Suddenly the spectacle presents itself in all its splendor, and now well bred steeds gayly prance along life way, dragging fashion in the wake. But the great multitude of people proceeds toward the fountains, where silver balls dance joyfully, and, sustained amid air by never-ceasing jets, sparkle in the sun right merrily. Little boys wonder why the silver balls remain on high, and rivet their bright little opines on the anties of the glittering baubles, in anticipation of a splendid concert the assenblage momentarity increased, not only in numbers, but in all the elements that go to compose the throng of fashion, elegance and refinement. Pretite belies never tripped along more gracefully; the beaux were faultiess, and old couples smiled benkmanly on the scene. With a consideration worthy of much approval spacious tents were spread aroun rious days of the meeting. The bay gelding J. J. Bradley was the favorite before the race, the gray gelding Surprise second in choice, and with Idol and Western New York selling in the field. In one pool of $335 the prices were:—Bradley $160, Surprise $110, field $65. Five heats were trotted and Bradley won the race in style; his partisans, although he lost first and second heats, never gave up their confidence in his ultimate victory. Surprise took second and Idol third money.

The second race was of but little account, being a match between John Hasiet's binck mare and D. Morgan's black gelding Dandy, for $600, mile heats, best three in five, in harness. The latter won in thise straight heats and distanced the mare. The third race was a scrub performance, a match for bost three in five, in harness. The latter won in three straight heats and distanced the mare. The third race was a scrub performance, a match for $100, mile heats, best three in five, to wagon, between John Murphy's black geiding Black Pat and Barney the "Wild Frenchman's" chestnut geiding Biliare. The black geiding won easily and distanced Barney's horse in the third heat. The fourth race, and really the one productive of the most excitement and peculiar jockeying, was a match between Ben Damel's bay gelding Young Commodore and "Gus" Noble's bay gelding Young Commodore and "Gus" Noble's bay gelding James O'Brien. A thunder shower came up during this contest, and the fourth and lifts heats were trotted in a drenening rain. There was a large amount of money staked on the result, and the victory of the geiding O'Brien caused the adherents of Young Commodore and his supposed ability to win to be losers to an amount that will in the future cause them to be a little careful of the "jobs they put up." In the fourth heat, when Young Commodore had won but one heat, there was a collision of the sulkies on the first ture, and Ben Damiel's was somewhat injured. Although O'Brien won the heat easily the "interested" made the damagea vehicle a basis of procest, and tharged Roden, the driver of the latter, with an intention of running down his opponent. How that could have been, or that it was his fault, when at the time his horse was from half a length to see, but the rabble "knew that he meant it," and, finally, after much discussion, the heat was given to Commodore, and this making two and two a fifth was ordered to be trotted, which ended in a victory for O'Brien. It is to be hoped that in the future the Fashion Course patrons will witness but few trots of this nature.

The third attempt they got away, Surprise first, Western New York second, Idol third and Bradley fourta. Leaving the stand Idol went up, and Bradley initiated her example on the turn. At the half-mile pole, in 1:15, Western New York and Surprise were head and head, six lengths in front of Idol, third, she being two lengths in advance of Bradley. Approaching the three quarter pole, Borst urged his geiding, and he reaponded to the word and was rapidly going to the front, when he again broke, and failing back, the score was passed, Surprise first, two lengths alead of Western New York, Bradley third and Idol fourth. Time, 2:3134.

Second Heat.—The betting was still greatly in favor of Bradley, as he sold against the field, one pool being Bradley $180, field $100. Surprise had the best of the send off, Western New York second, Bradley third and Idol last. On the turn Idol went up, Surprise being first, two lengths shead of Western New York, who was but a neck in advance of Bradley, at the half-mile pole Western New York was third and Idol last. Idol got away first, and led the entire distance, coming home winner by two lengths, Bradley second, Surprise third, ten lengths in front of Western New York. Bradley broke badly at the distance stand, which caused his defeat. Time, 2:314.

Fourth Heat.—But little betting, all the fraternity being of one opinion, and that was that the game bay gelding Bradley could not lose. The judges gave the word when he was three lengths behind. Idol ted from the turn, with Surprise second and Western New York third, until the half-mile poie was reached, when Bradley clipped it so effectively that at the distance stand he was six lengths in front, which lend he maintained over the score. Idol was second, half a length in front of Surprise, third, and Western New York fourth. Time, 2:31.

Fifth Heat.—One hundred to five that Bradley would win. Western New York got the best of the send-off, Surprise and Idol head and head. Bradley last. Going along the Fleshing end he went to the front and came home winner of the heat by ten lengths; Western New York second, six lengths ahead of Surprise, third, who was two lengths in front of Idol. Time 2:32.

The judges announced that Bradley had won the race and first money, Surprise second and Idol third Brauch by Moonlight" and Dubufe's "Circassian Slave" Enthusiastically Purchased. The Leeds Art Galleries were crowded last night pany, made up not only of connoisseurs, spectators and loungers, but buyers. It was the second evening of the sale of original paintings, works of ar and pictures by celebrated and favorite American and European artasts. The auctioneer was Mr. Albert B. Miner, whose well known ability in realizing the best prices for these works of art was admirably and successfully put forth.

The genm of the evening were Rosenberg's "Long Branch by Moonlight," Dubufe's "Circassian Slave" and "Hata," by the Baron Wappers. There were a number of minor paintings of more than average merit, notable among which were several landscapes. The bidders had evidently studied the paintings while on view, and therefore no time was lost in reiterating a description of their merits, tosenberg's "Long Branch," when placed on the easal, was received with appliance. This remarkable composition is too well known to need any description; it has been engraved by Linton, and is one of his finest works. It was started at $1,000, but the bidding was very spirited, and it was ultimately sold at $2,200 to a gentlemnan whose name did not transpire. "The Circassian Slave" was a mirrelious production, wonderfulin its adelity to nature, and was, as the catalogue truly described, an exquisite drawing of the tints of the fiesh. It realized $2,750, and the happy and fortennate purchaser has certainly obtained a bargain. Baron Gustave Wappers' "Italia" was started at $500, and was sold to Mr. Prescott for $1,600. It also was a wondrous production, as exhibited, of the human figure, and would be the attraction of any art gallery in which the actioneer described as the best landscape in America, was indeed a landscape worthy of the most lavish purse, and sold for $495. Another landscape by Pope was purchased by Mr. Niblo for $300. The sale was evidently an attraction to all the lovers of the fine arts, and taken in its entirety will be found satisfactory to buyers and sellers.

An unparalleled attraction is offered to all who have an appreciative taste for the pany, made up not only of connoisseurs, spectators time ago, in regard to the former, at a meeting of the Common Council a Father offered a resolution asking that the sum of $10,000 be appropriated for the benefit of St. Michael's Hospital, an institution in charge of the Cataolic ciergy and the Sisters of Charty, and one that has proved the greatest possible boon to the sick, the mained and the suffering of the community. A new and spacious building is in course of erection, and towards completing this the appropriation was asked. Newark has no hospital of its own, and it was urged that the giving of aid to the hospital in course of erection would virtually be conferring a benefit on the entire community, as the institution is catholic in the wideat sense of the word. The resolution met with determined opposition, and was lost. Since then the matter has been agitated, and again at the meeting of the Council on Friday night it formed the caled by a vote of one. It certainly seems strange that the Council will not provide an institution iself nor lend a kelpting hand to knose already in the field. To-morrow the spring trotting meeting of the Union Course will commence, and continue Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, ending with the purse of S2,500, for which the great favorities, American Girl, George Wilkés and George Paimer, will contend. The purses to be given to-morrow are of $500 and $800, with nine and eight entries respectively. There will be pleasant times on the old course this week.

A MODERN TOURNEY.

A Sign of Reconstruction—Cavaliers of the Worth and South in Friendly Rivalry-The Tournament at the Prospect Park Fair Grounds-An Enjoyable Day and a Pleasant Entertainment.

The feelings that stirred the soul of Macbeth when

wondering citizens of Brooklyn yesterday. Medicevalism jerked back from out the darkness of the values perked tack from out the darkness of the past into the nineteenth century and a republican country; the high-sounding nonsense of old "effete Europe" resounding from the lips of ridiculously clad democrats, in the hearing of smiling sceptics; the pride, pomp and circumstance of middle-age foolery transplanted from the mock heroic South to within a few miles of practical New York—this is what the innocent people saw and wondered at. Their highest idea of horsemanship having been obtained from witnessing swift horse-driven by gentlemen who did nothing in particular whatever in their trotting matches, their expectatons were raised to the highest pitch by the announcement that at Prospect Park valiant knights of the loftiest character would contend in mortal strife for the smiles and favor of the Queen of Love and Beauty. The spiendid description of the tournamen! in Scott's "Ivanhoe" was read and re-read by thousands, who expected to see a similar exhibition of flery valor on the gory covered field of Brooklyn. Before people knew who the high and mighty knights were whose mission it was to belabor other suights and lay them low by doughty blow and thrusts in the lists, the whole plan and scope of the fearful fight was clearly seen in every unsophisticated eye. There would be Sir Murphy de Bois Flanagan. Of New York, in a hand-to-hand encounter with Sir Powhatan Pip. Jr., of Culpepper Court. House, Va., while Sir Joshua B. Smith, of Connecticut, rode down and stamped on the fearful form of Sir Marmaduke Jones, of Chicago. And in the rout, the noise and clash of arms, it was fondily expected that some desperately inclined knight, horribly black and forbidding in his aspect, would break the pates of innumerable califfication.

on the learnth form of ser marinature Jones, of Chicago. And in the rout, the noise and clash of arms, it was fondly expected that some desperately inclined knight, horribly black and forbidding in his aspect, would break the pates of manmerable caltifus from aspring Jersey. But, alia! for the expectations of the romantic and the chivalrous! The great expectations of the day dwindled down to the smallest hopes when the gathering crowds assembled at the fair grounds in Brockyn and glanced at the knights in buckram and beneld the picayune preparations for her till.

The chivalrous beings having the tournament in charge, though filled with the loitiest notions, and no doubt sincerely anxious to annihilate by one good day's representation of ancient state and style, the too utilitarian spirit of the hour, were not above a sharp business trick. The time for the tournament to commence was advertised for twelve o'clock, but it was not intended that the sport should commence before two. It was a good move in a pecuniary point of view, but somewhat annoying to those who found themselves despotled of two hours' valuable time. It must be said, however, that beyond this there was little in the mangement of the affair to call for censure. The exhibition of horsemanship was very good, and it is to be hoped that the manip sport of utiling at the ring, which was splendidly exhibited yesterday, may speedly take the place of the unmeaning trotting matches which our elizens flock to see for want of any better outdoor amusement.

As the reader will have already surnised, nothing at all like a tournament on "the good old plan" was attempted. It was simply the Southern sport of tiling at a ring suspended from a cord wittran from tippel spear from the back of a horse running at full speed. The sport is exhibitating for those engaged in it, and very exciting for those who look on. Why special spears and dash horses logsther recklessly, is a "Looke on the Human Understanding," and why the misguided youths, who display such skill and ad

Relative to the pavement question the criticals are at last fairly aroused to the belief that the cobble stones which disgrace Broad street and murder our horsefesh are really disgraceful, and ought no longer to be tolerated. Now the question is what kind of pavement shall be substituted? Some are in favor of the Belgian, others the Telford-Macadam, and the majority prefer one or other of the wooden pavements.
